

PhD studentship in the Fellows' Library. The University of Birmingham, in collaboration with the Fellows' Library, have just advertised an AHRC-funded PhD studentship to research the Thistlethwayte gift of 1767. This, one of the largest donations of books received by the College, contained thousands of books in English, French, German, Dutch, Spanish, Italian, Latin, Greek and Arabic, which Thistlethwayte had collected while a student at Wadham College, on the Grand Tour, and while residing at his family home at Southwick.

Details of the studentship may be found at:
